The Council of Tyrants.

From "Paroles d'un Croyant," by F. Lamennais.

It was a gloomy night; a starless sky hung heavily over the earth like a black marble dome over a tomb, and nothing interrupted the silence of the night but a strange sound like the flapping of wings which from time to time is heard over the cities and fields. Then the darkness thickened, and every one felt his soul shrink into itself, and a shudder run through all his veins.

In a hall hung with black, and lighted by the dull red glimmer of a single lamp, seven men, crowned and robed in purple, were sitting upon seven seats of iron. In the centre of the hall was raised a throne, composed of the bones of the dead, and, at the foot of the throne, in place of a footstool, there was a crucifix overturned; and before the throne, a table of ebony, on which were a vessel filled with blood, red and foaming, and a human skull.

And the seven crowned men seemed thoughtful and sad, and from the depths of their hollow sockets, their eyes from time to time darted sparks of livid fire. And one of them rose and with tottering step approached the throne, and trod under foot the crucifix. At this moment his limbs trembled, and he seemed ready to faint. The others gazed at him motionless; but an indescribable expression passed over their features, and an unearthly smile contracted their lips. Then he who had seemed ready to faint put forth his hand, seized the vessel, poured the blood out into the skull and drank, and the draught appeared to strengthen him.—Raising his head, this cry came from his breast like the hollow death-rattle:

"Cursed be Christ, who hath restored Liberty to the earth!"

And the other six crowned men rose with one accord, and together they uttered the same cry, "Cursed be Christ, who hath restored Liberty to the earth!"

Then resuming their seats of iron, the first said:

"My brethren, what shall we do to stifle Liberty? for our reign is over if hers begin.—We have a common cause; let each propose that which seems to him good. Listen to my counsel. Before Christ crime, who could stand before us? It is his religion which has ruined us; therefore let us abolish the religion of Christ."

And they all replied, "It is true. Let us abolish the religion of Christ."

Then the second advanced to the throne, took the skull, which he filled with blood, drank, and addressed them as follows: "It is not religion only which must be abolished, but science and thought also; for science teaches men that which it is not for our good that they should know, and thought is always ready to contend against force."

And all answered, "It is true. Let us abolish science and thought."

The third, after imitating the example of the first two, thus spoke: "When we have plunged men back again into brutishness by taking from them religion, science and thought, we shall have accomplished much; but there will still remain something else for us to do. The brute has instinct and dangerous sympathies; therefore no people should hear the voice of any other, for fear that if one should murmur and become restless, another might be tempted to do the same. Then let no rumor from without penetrate our kingdoms."

And all answered, "It is true. Let no rumor from without penetrate our kingdoms."

And the fourth said: "We have our interests and the people have theirs, which are directly opposed to ours. If they unite to defend these interests against us how shall we overpower them? Let us make divisions that we may reign securely. Let us create in every province, in every city, in every hamlet, an interest opposed to that of other hamlets, other cities and other provinces. In this way all will hate each other, and they will not dream of joining against us."

And all replied, "It is true. Let us divide that we may reign securely. Unity will be our ruin."

The fifth having twice filled the human skull with blood and emptied it, said: "I approve the measures; they are good but insufficient. To make men brutes is well; but to frighten these brutes, strike terror into them by inexorable laws and cruel punishments, if you would not sooner or later be devoured by them. The executioner is the prime minister of a good prince."

And all answered, "It is true. The executioner is the prime minister of a good prince."

And the sixth said: "I acknowledge the advantage to be gained from prompt, terrible and inevitable punishments. But there are heroic and despairing souls who brave punishment. Would you govern men easily, enervate them by voluptousness. Virtue is of no use to us; it encourages resistance; let us exhaust the greater part by corruption."

And all replied, "It is true. Let us exhaust strength and energy, and courage by corruption."

Then the seventh, having drank, like the others, from the skull, spoke thus with his foot upon the crucifix: "Down with Christ! There is war to the death, eternal war between him and us! But how shall we alienate the people from him? It is a vain effort. What shall we do then? Listen to me. We must gain over the priests of Christ with riches, with honor and with power. And they will command the people in the name of Christ to submit to us in everything, both in what we may do, and in what we may order; and the people will believe them, and they will obey for conscience's sake, and our power shall be more stable than ever before."

And all answered, "It is true. Let us gain over the priests of Christ."

Then suddenly the lamp which lighted the hall was extinguished, and the seven men vanished in the darkness. And it was said to a righteous man, who, at that moment, watched and prayed before the cross,

"My day approaches, adore and fear not."

LITURGICAL REVISION IN ENGLISH CHURCH'S.—The Archbishop of Canterbury is about to receive a deputation of churchmen whose object is to induce him not to accede to any alteration of the formularies of the Church of England.—The reference is supposed to be a design of the Bishop of London to introduce a bill which will prohibit some of the ornamentations with which it has lately been the practice of clergymen to bedeck themselves. The memorialists object to any such interference with the liberty of the clergy to dress as they please in the celebration of divine service.

Desirable Farm for Sale.

THE PLANTATION SITUATED ABOUT TWO and a half miles from the village of Magnolia on the Wilmington and Weldon R. R., between that place and Kenansville, and known as "Barbacue," is offered for sale. The tract contains 350 acres, 100 of which are cleared and have been under cultivation, producing excellent Corn, Wheat, potatoes, &c. A portion of the land is also well adapted to the culture of cotton. An inexhaustible bed of Marl, a large spring of as good water as can be found in the State, and a never failing stream, running through the center of the cleared land, are among the attractions of the place.

The timbered portion of the land being nearest the Rail Road, and the entire place being easy of access to a first rate market, make it a highly desirable location for growing produce, raising stock and selling timber. Any one having the cash, can procure a bargain by applying immediately to

Coe's Super-Phosphate of Lime,
OR BONE MANURE.
WARRANTED GENUINE.
BEING MADE OF THE BEST MATERIAL AND in the most approved manner, it is recommended to the public as superior to any other in the market. All who have used it speak of it in the highest terms of praise, and those engaged in its manufacture will continue their best endeavors to advance the high reputation which it has acquired.
We guarantee the Phosphate to be well manufactured, and recommend it in preference to any other artificial manure in the market. We consider it nearly equal to the best Peruvian Guano, although furnished at half the price.
Messrs B H. Allen & Co., the well known manufacturers of agricultural implements, say of it:
"We take pleasure in stating that we have sold E. F Coe's Super-Phosphate of Lime for four years—It has given universal satisfaction to our customers. We most cheerfully endorse it as an article worthy of the confidence of the public, and the purchaser may rely upon securing an article honestly and carefully manufactured.
"We would state that, after careful examination, we believe this Phosphate has been improved each year since its introduction in this market, and that it will continue to maintain its present high standing.
"Very respectfully,
"R. H. ALLEN & CO.,

A Plea for the Negro.

We of the South, who have supposed ourselves to be the best friends of the negro, may after all be mistaken. For over two hundred years we have held him in bondage—a bondage under which his Northern sympathizers have groaned and fretted, far more than he—a bondage under which he has been fed and clothed—provided with shelter—relieved from care and anxiety—nursed when sick—mourned over when dead, and then buried more decently than often falls to the lot of the free in other lands. In turn he has been made to work, taught that he was an immortal—taught our language, the arts of industry, the claims of domestic life, and in those two hundred years elevated from the lowest depths of barbarism to an advanced state of semi-civilization. To make him what he is, severe discipline, sometimes violent punishment, has been used, but, through all this, he has been the gainer. Slavery has improved him—raised him a thousand fold above his barbarous race in his home-land. If his labor has cost him pain, he has shared its results with his master. If he has passed through the tread-mill of discipline, he has been made a wiser man and more of a man, than he could have become under any other circumstances. Had he remained in his own land as free as his native hills, he would have remained as savage as the wild beasts of Ethiopia. Had he been thrown a freeman into Boston, fresh from Guinea, he must have perished from sheer indolence and neglect.

The abolitionists have filled the land with their agonizing shrieks over the ruins of slavery—the intolerable, crushing burdens of the poor slave. The cry was, before he was free, that slavery had debased and crushed the poor negro; that it robbed him of manhood and intelligence and virtue, and reduced him to the level of beasts of burden. Now that he is free, all at once he is ready to take position in the highest ranks of civilization. He is wise enough to vote, to sit on juries, to become a merchant, to aspire to the learned professions, to grace a gentleman's parlor, to be the equal and associate of his sons and the husband of his daughter! In nine months time, those formerly down-trodden, ruined barbarians, by some hocus pocus, are the equals in all respects of the more highly favored whites.

Well, it may be so. Things after all may not be what they seem to be. But here in North Carolina, the negro has the same characteristics, proclivities, habitudes and aspirations he formerly had. They find that freedom is not what it promised to be. Work sits harder on them than formerly; so much so, that, for one half as much as they formerly did, they expect to be fed and clothed and cared for as before. The shoe begins to pinch, when colored men have to take care of wife and children, whom their masters provided for before, and when to these are added an old father or mother or both, matters become tighter than they ever dreamed of. And many of them go from place to place seeking bread and finding none.

There is some mistake in freeing the negro and leaving him here, where every thing he sees reminds him of his former slavery and the bread and meat which another provided for him.—Make him what you will, let him be pre-nimed a citizen and a gentleman to-morrow, it will avail nothing, so long as he is here. Congress and his peculiar friends may vote him the equal of the whites a thousand times, but if he remain in the South he will be nothing but a negro.

His transportation to the South has made him half a man—but to make him a whole man, he must be transported again. Why is it the blacks of the South have been so blind, as to think of remaining in the land of their slavery? Just think of them going to Boston, to New York, and becoming merchant princes—leaders of parties and the chief men of the nation! There at the North where men get rich in a day! Why should they not at once go where they can be something? Where they can do business like white folks, send their children to the same schools, ride in the same carriages and sleep in the same bed. Why do they not rush to the rich mining lands of Pennsylvania—the rich lands of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois! There rich lands and a loving, sympathizing population await them! Why not go to their Northern friends who are ready to set them up in business and give them a helping hand to wealth, honor and renown! If they remain in the South, it is to perish. Our lands will not pay to be half worked. Here on our poor sterile lands, where bread is made by the sweat of the brow, there is no inducement.

We call upon all who sympathize with the poor negro, every where, to advise, persuade, implore the blacks of the South to seek the better prospect in the North, where they have friends—friends who will of course divide the last dollar, share the last piece of bread with them, and give them half of their bed to boot. O! that the Southern people had more sympathy for the poor blacks. Would they let them rest day or night until they were all off for Yankee land! Help them on, friends. Their Northern friends stand with open arms to receive them.

Why stay here, where money is so scarce, where bread and meat are so hard to obtain!—Why, in Massachusetts and Connecticut and New York, and the North generally, the people groan under the weight of their gold. And surely they are ready to devote half of their income, to provide for their interesting friends, the gentlemen and ladies of African descent.—Let us help them off to that goodly land. If they stay South, they will be ground to powder by the National and State taxes, and what will they do for bread?

Death of Mr. Hanrahan.

We record with sorrow the death of Mr. W. S. Hanrahan, one of the Commoners from Pitt county, which occurred suddenly and unexpectedly on Sunday morning last, at the Exchange Hotel in this city. He was unwell on Friday and took his room, continued somewhat unwell on Saturday, but remarked to his servant on Sunday morning that he was better. The servant left his room at 8 o'clock, when he expressed a purpose to get up and dress himself. Not long after the superintendent of the Hotel went to his room to enquire after his health, and found him in a dying state, called in his physician immediately, and every effort was made to rally him, but in vain. He expired about ten o'clock. His physician pronounced the attack to be gout of the heart or stomach.

Mr. H. was a man of genial and generous spirit and much beloved by his friends. He had but recently entered public life, and had already secured a strong hold upon the confidence of the people of Pitt, having been elected both to the Convention and Legislature. His remains will be removed to his home for intrment.

"The Watchman."

The second number of this popular paper is at hand. Its typography is exquisitely fine, its selections have rare merit, and its editorials are tasteful and able. Messrs. J. G. Williams & Co., of this city, are the Agents, and, will be glad to receive subscriptions.

The opinions of the press are universally kind and complimentary, except in the case of a co-temporary in this city. It says, "It's editorials are ingeniously written, but they are secession to the bone." Being obliged to cut the first number to copy a portion of an article in which our readers were specially interested, we did not critically examine the article of that issue. We have however carefully examined the second number, and we venture the assertion, if the most skilled, chemical intellect in the land, were to put the contents of the last number to the severest possible test, he could not eliminate enough secessionism, to stand upon the point of the finest cambric needle. A friend at our elbow, who carefully read our first copy says, that we might truthfully say as much of the first as the second.

We beg our neighbor to try to think and believe more favorably of its own people. Cease to wear green spectacles. We beg to remind it that secession is dead and cannot be revived. Those odors, which it sniffs whenever the wind blows from a certain direction, are not from the dead carcass of secession. If our contemporary does smell something like it, it is only imaginary.

The object of Dr. Deems, is by no means to widen the breach between the North and the South. His opinions both political and religious are honestly entertained, and while he most ardently sustained the South in her recent struggle, from a sense of duty, he as sincerely and as devotedly, now desires Union and peace between the two sections, and one of the designs of "The Watchman," is to reflect so clearly and faithfully the views and feelings of the North and the South, as to bring them nearer and more warmly to each other.

What is to be Done!

Sure enough, what is to be done? Who can answer the question? A lady from the country called upon us yesterday in a deeply distressed state of mind, and asked what is to be done to protect citizens outside of town and in its vicinity. She seemed to have a presentiment that we possessed some peculiar charm, which, if brought to bear upon straggling, lawless negroes, who prowl through the adjacent country, stealing and robbing both by day and by night, would in some way palliate this enormous evil. But we were unable to give her any comfort.

The question, however, comes up still, "What is to be done?" It presses fiercely upon the ear of our authorities and must be answered by them and that right speedily, or guilt will attach to them which cannot be easily shaken off. Scarcely a day passes that does not bring to us a sad report of the most aggravated cases of arson; and not a week that we do not hear of the most brutal instances of highway robbery within a few miles of town.

Only yesterday, we learn from a reliable source that a Mr. Bell, while going from town with a barrel of flour to his home, a few miles in the country, was attacked by a band of armed desperadoes in gunshot of the city, in broad daylight, and robbed of his horse, cart, flour and all. Such occurrences are of daily transaction, and something should be done to put a stop to it.

From the best information that we can gather, there is a band of about one hundred and fifty negroes, armed with every conceivable weapon of death, congregated on or near the "Long Point" or "Jones Plantation," beyond the Trent, somewhere in the vicinity of the Carteret and Onslow lines, who come out in squads and depredate upon honest people, and then return to their den with their booty. Now, suppose we had civil law, does any one imagine for a moment that these lawless wretches would be thus permitted to harrass and ruin the farmers of the country? No! They would be gobbled up so quick that it would be a terror to evil-doers for years to come.

But the question still looms up, "What is to be done?" Well, we'll tell you what we think should be done and done immediately: Two or three regiments of troops should be sent here to patrol our country, and enforce order and secure safety to the persons and property of our distracted people.—Northern Times.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

SENATE.

MONDAY MORNING, Jan. 22.

The Senate was called to order at 10 o'clock. Prayer by the Rev. Mr. Atkinson of the Presbyterian Church.

The journal of yesterday was read and approved.

Mr. A. J. Jones offered the following resolutions, and on motion of Mr. Morehead, they were laid on the table and ordered to be printed:

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolved, 1st. That this General Assembly hails with the highest satisfaction the partial cessation of military rule in this State, and the partial restoration of civil authority.

Resolved, 2nd. That the time has arrived when the arm of the Judiciary should be released from military dominance, whereby peace will herald reconciliation by a return, in spirit and in letter, to the purity of our beneficient institutions, and that that unity conducive to the strength and happiness of the nation, be cemented by the mild but powerful protection of civil justice.

Resolved, 3rd. That the policy of President Johnson deserves the gratitude of our citizens, and such an administration will receive the sincere and cordial support of our people.

Resolved, 4th. That notwithstanding the losses and calamnities which have fallen with such overwhelming force on our people, it is the duty of the State to pay its just debts as soon as it can be done without oppressing its suffering citizens.

Resolved, 5th. That to resuscitate our agricultural operations, to develope our mining and manufacturing interests, and to complete our systems of internal improvements, all fair efforts should be made to invite capital and labor from abroad.

Resolved further, That with a view especially to obtain for the benefit of our citizens, capital from abroad, the rate of interest should for all special contracts be raised to such an extent, as may induce capitalists to furnish the money to revive the business of our community.

Mr. Wilson introduced a resolution, proposing that a joint select committee, on the part of both Houses, consisting of two members on the part of the Senate and four on the part of the House, be appointed to look into the construction of the sixth ordinance of the Convention relative to the cessation of the powers of the Provisional Justices of the Peace and other officers, who, by said ordinance, were continued in office until the close of the first session of the General Assembly; or, at such other time as the Assembly shall direct, successors in such appointments and officers to be chosen or to be qualified, growing out of the fact, whether the adjournment of the Assembly on the 18th of December, 1865, to the first Monday in February, 1866, constituted in law a close of the session as contemplated by said ordinance. Adopted.

On motion, the list of Magistrates for Yadkin and Burke was laid on the table, and made the order for 12 o'clock to-morrow.

Additional lists of Magistrates from the House were received and concurred in.

Mr. Sholer introduced a bill to extend the dinance appointing a judge to examine claims &c., referred to committee on judiciary.

Mr. Arendell arose and announced the death of the commoner from Pitt, Mr. Hanrahan. Mesrs Arendell and Whitford made some appropriate remarks, and Mr. Arendell moved as a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, that the Senate adjourn until to-morrow, 11 o'clock. The resolution was adopted.

The House met at 10 o'clock.

Prayer by Rev. J. M. Atkinson.

A message was received from the Senate agreeing to the recommendations of the House for Justices with some exceptions.

The special order for 11 o'clock, viz: "A bill to prevent the distillation of spirituous liquours from grain," was postponed until 11 o'clock to-morrow.

Mr. Waugh moved to reconsider the vote by which the House adopted the list of magistrates for Surry county. The motion was ruled out of order, but allowed an entry on the journal.

Mr. Russell presented a list of magistrates for Brunswick county.

Mr. Yellowly announced the death of Walter J. Henrahan, as follows:

MR. SPEAKER: I have to perform the melancholy duty of announcing to the House, the sudden and unexpected decease of my colleague Walter S. Henrahan. He died yesterday morning at his lodgings in this City.

I parted with him the evening before, leaving him cheerful and apparently with his painful disease mitigated and yielding to the skillful treatment of his Physician.

When I was called to his bedside the following morning I found him in the agony of death.

At midnight the severity of his sufferings having subsided, he dropped into a sound slumber and while in this condition, his disease as if waiting for an unguarded moment to make more sure of its victim, seized upon a vital organ and terminated his life while he was in a state of insensibility.

He had been confined to his chamber six, but one day. Punctual in respecting the summons of the Governor, he was in his place in this body the first two days of the Session, on the third he kept his chamber, the fourth finds him numbered with the dead.

Mr. Hanahan was a native of the county he represented and was, at the time of his death thirty-nine years of age. His public life commenced as a member of the present State Convention. At the election ordered by that body for members of the General Assembly, his constituency renewed their confidence in him by placing him in the position that he so recently filled. As a private citizen he possessed virtues and traits of character that made friendships lasting and permanent. Of well known fidelity in his attachments, those upon whom it was bestowed, had unfailing reliance that in the hour of need he would come to their aid with bold and unselfish alacrity. Geniality, mirth, generous sympathy, unflinching friendship, ardent and unselfish devotion were qualities that ornamented his life and made him the welcomed central object of a social circle, where grief must now reside and lamentation find no comfort.

As a mark of respect on the part of this house, I move the following resolution.

Resolved, That this House learns with deep concern the decease of Walter S. Hanrahan, a member of this body from the county of Pitt, and sincerely deplores an event that has cast, at such an early day of this session, the gloom of sorrow over its deliberations.

Resolved, That this House tenders its sympathies to the family of Mr. Hanrahan, and as a mark of its respect to his memory it do now adjourn.

Mr. Jenkins of Warren, also paid a tribute to the memory of the deceased.

The resolution was unanimously adopted and the House adjourned.

[NOTE.—In the vote published in this paper on yesterday on the proposition to strike out the name of John C. Hill from the list of magistrates from Randolph, the name of Mr. McNair did not appear. He voted in the affirmative.]

The Late Col. T. I. Faison, of Sampson.

On Friday last, upon the announcement of the death of the late Col. T. I. Faison, Senator from Sampson, in the Senate, Messrs. Stanford and Williams made the following remarks:

Mr. J. D. Stanford, Senator from Duplin, arose and said:

MR. SPEAKER:—I arise, Sir, to perform the melancholy duty of announcing to the Senate the death of one of its members since our adjournment in December last.

THOMAS I. FAISON, late Senator from the county of Sampson, departed this life at his home, in that county, a few days after his arrival from our late session. I am aware, Mr. Speaker, that we are prone in speaking of departed friends to throw the mantle of charity over their foibles and extol their virtues; but I think, Sir, that I can, from a long and intimate acquaintance, both of a public and private nature, in truth and sincerity say that he was indeed a noble specimen of a man. We who were associated with him here can bear willing testimony that he was always liberal and patriotic, giving a cheerful and hearty support to every measure that would tend to develop the resources or advance the prosperity of the State, regardless from what section they emanated, and if the voice of those who knew him best could be heard, with one accord they would assure you that they had never known a better neighbor or truer friend than Thomas I. Faison.

Col. Faison entered public life when quite young, having been for some twenty years Clerk of the Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions of his county, a member of the Convention of 1835, several times a member of this body, a member of the Convention which met in this city last fall, of which body and of this he was a member at the time of his death, which conclusively demonstrates the estimation in which he was held by the people of his native county. Most men of ordinary intelligence, by intrigue and demagogueism may occasionally get into positions of public trust, but when a man fills public positions in his county for twenty or thirty years, the people, from contact and association with him, are compelled to learn his true character, and if it is not of the right stripe he would necessarily lose his hold upon their confidence and affection; and I am assured from undoubted authority, that our late colleague at the time of his death possessed the confidence and affection of the people of his county in a higher degree than he ever had; and, Sir, may I not ask Senators, that if any public man, by his zeal and devotion to the interests of his constituents, was ever entitled to their support and approbation, if he was not eminently so. But, Sir, to understand and appreciate a man's character, we must view him not merely as a public man, but must follow him into social life, into the family circle, where, secure from the gaze and scrutiny of the world, he can throw off all dissimulation, and let the true traits of his character develop themselves; and who, Sir, that has ever partaken of the generous hospitality of our deceased colleague, failed to be impressed with the love and affection with which he was regarded by all around him. It seems difficult, Sir, for us who have been so long associated with him here to realize the fact, that we shall no more receive from him warm greetings of friendship and encouragement; but he is gone, and all we can do is to cherish his memory and endeavor to imitate his virtues, that we may live and die respected and loved as he did.—And, Sir, may I not express the hope that this melancholy event may impress us with the importance of so ordering our lives, that, if the last Messenger shall come to us as to him, suddenly and unexpectedly, he may find us prepared to yield a cheerful obedince to the will of Him who doeth all things well.

Mr. H. G. Williams, of Nash, followed and said:

MR. SPEAKER—In rising to second the very appropriate and timely resolutions, which have been introduced by the Senator from Duplin, I desire to offer a few remarks as a testimonial of my high regard for the memory of the late Senator from Sampson, and also, as expressive of sorrow at his sudden and unexpected death. But a few weeks ago, when we separated here, he was in the enjoyment apparently of his usual health and strength; but he has since been stricken down, by the hand of death, and is now reposing beneath the sod—his grave watered by the tears of family grief and friendship's offering.—No one of us could have calculated, with more certainty than he, to have returned to our duties in this chamber; no more than we can tell how soon we may be called to follow after him—forcibly reminded as we are by this dispensation, "what shadows we are and what shadows we pursue."

Strong in his attachments, warm in his impulses, cordial in his mangers, Col. Thomas I. Faison was, deservedly, a man of popularity and influence—a pleasant and genial companion, a devoted friend, a faithful public servant. The continued and uniform confidence reposed in him by the people of his native county, in electing him, for so many years, to high and responsible positions, fully attest his great popularity where he was best known, as well as their appreciation of his faithful services and eminent usefulness. All of us, who know him, can bear testimony to his untiring energy and ceaseless efforts to carry out what he believed to be right. Fidelity in the discharge of his duties, unflinching zeal for the public welfare, and a constant devotion to the best interests of the State, were the leading traits of his political character; while in private life he was distinguished by a firmness of moral courage, an openness of heart, and a liberality of sentiment, which won the esteem not only of those who agreed with him, but even of his political opponents.

The death of Col. Faison may be truly regarded as a loss to the State of North Carolina; yet, while his loss is a general one, it will be peculiarly felt by the people of his section, to whom as a citizen, neighbor, friend he was well known, and by whom his death will be sorely and sincerely lamented. His bereaved family, bowed down with grief at their sudden and irretrivable loss, have my utmost sympathy. The only consolation we can offer them, is the assurance that the deceased has left behind him a reputation for unbending integrity, honesty of purpose and generous kindness, which will ever be cherished with admiration and respect.

Dissolution of Copartnership.

THE firm heretofore known as that of Baker, Cowper & Co. has this day been dissolved by mutual consent. The duties devolving on one of the partners as Cashier of the Bank of Cape Fear, and the removal of the other to Norfolk (his residence before the war) for the purpose of practicing law have caused this dissolution. HAMPSHIRE COAL.

CARGO OF HAMPSHIRE COAL DAILY expected from Baltimore.
This coal is bituminous and perhaps the best coal known for steam purposes whether for locomotives or steamboats. It is used almost exclusively by northern railroad companies and the Cunard Steamers. It is also represented as the best blacksmith coal in the country and is very extensively used in iron works for forging, etc. It is soft and friable, the fine coal being as good for use as the lump.
The attention of railroad companies, iron works and machine shops, is particularly invited to the importance of a trial of this coal.
The undersigned having been appointed agent for the Hampshire and Baltimore Coal Company, will be prepared to furnish any quantity required, at a reasonable price.
Orders respectfully solicited.

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

Advertisements.

Warrenton Female College opens its Spring session to-morrow the 24th. It is a capital school.

G. W. Mordecai Esq., advertises a fine Horse, stolen from his stables.

Rev. Samuel Pearce, announces the issue of a new Map of North Carolina, with many improvements brought down to the present time.

Jas B. Shepard Esq., offers to Lease Pew No. 1 in Christ Church.

Our friend Kinsey offers a new importation of cheap calico—20 cts.

The firm of Baker, Cowper & Co., has been dissolved, succeeded by Messrs. Cowper and Moore.

A House and Lot for rent by R. H. Battle, jr., Esq.

THEFT.—We regret to learn that Mr. M. J. Davis, of the House of Commons, had his room entered by a thief, while he was at supper on Sunday night, and his watch and a suit of clothes stolen from him.

ARRESTS.—Mr. T. G. Ferrell of this city was arrested and sent to prison on a charge of attempting to pass a $50 counterfeit U. S. Treasury bill, on Saturday last. On the same day Bill Dan ey and Charles Johnson were sent to jail by the Provost Marshall on the charge of having beaten a colored man severely and robbed him. These arrests indicate an amount of vigilance, which we hope will be kept up, until law breakers will be afraid to offend.

BOARDING.—We observe that the price of board has considerably fallen within the last ten days. This must have been caused more by the desire to get boarders than the fall in the price of provisions. So far as we can see, provisions are as scarce and as high as before. We judge that those who desire cheap board will be content with cheap fare.

SHOOTING.—Several loud reports of guns were heard in the Western part of the city between 8 and 9 o'clock on Sunday night, causing some uneasiness on the part of the ladies. We supposed it was a violation of a city ordinance, for persons to fire off guns at improper times. If it be allowed on the part of the military, our weak-nerved ladies would be greatly obliged to the Commandant, if he would issue a strict order to prevent it. The firing of guns at night unless really necessary, excite needless fears among timid people.

A Most Distressing Occurrence.

It is painful to us to record the following statements, as related to us by a gentlemen of this County. He does not vouch for their entire correctness, but related them as they were current.

On Friday last, Mr. Obadiah Page of this County, residing near Cedar Fork, returned to his home in the afternoon much excited with Spirituous liquors. He was habitual in the use of it to excess, and when in that condition was unkind to his family. He had on other occasions been unkind to his wife and daughter, and his daughter had left her home on account of it. On this day Friday, he struck his wife. His son, Alonzo, a lad about sixteen, had before remonstrated with his father about his treatment to his mother, and on this occasion told him, if he repeated his assaults upon her, that he would shoot him. This excited the father and the son left the house and went to the mill to attend to his duties. The father pursued the son to the mill and commenced beating the boy. The boy attempted to defend himself with his pistol, which the father took from him and threw in the mill pond. In the scuffle the father cut the boy in the and severely with his knife, and the boy ran home as soon as he could extricate himself.—The father pursued, but the boy reached home first, and seizing his rifle, attempted to fire at his father, but it missed fire. He then took a gun head fired bringing his father down upon his knees he seized a second loaded gun, and fired, killing his father outright. The boy is said to have been seriously injured by the cut given by his father.

A more sharp rebuke has seldon been given than this, to the practice of intoxication and the neglect of family discipline. Seldom has the peace of an entire family been more thoroughly destroyed than in this case.

GENERAL NEWS.

Rev. Dr. Sehon, of the Southern Methodist Church, is now preaching with great acceptance and popularity in New York.

The Catholic Bishop of Natchez has handed over to the Natchez Orphan Asylum [Protestant) $118, part of the $500 sent by the Catholics of Baltimore to the suffering poor of Natchez.

The Asheville News mentions the rumor that Mr. Caldwell, the President of the Western Extension of the North Carolina Railroad, has secured a loan of funds sufficient to complete that important work to Morganton.

Several spoons were stolen at the State dinner in Berlin, given in honor of Princess Alexandrine's marriage. The society could hardly have been very select.

The Secretary of the Treasury has decided that the prohibition of the importation of cattle from Canada does not apply to the importation of dressed beef.

A WEALTHY CHURCH.—The wealthiest congregation in New York city, perhaps in the whole country, is that of the Church of the Ascension, (Episcopal,) in the Fifth Avenue.—Their aggregate incomes last year are shown, by the official returns, to have been nearly eighteen millions of dollars.

BAMBOO PAPER.—A large number of vessels have been chartered to bring bamboo from Jamaica to New York, for the manufacture of paper. Paper is so high that bamboo has been experimented upon and is found to produce an excellent article.

THE RICE CROP.—Formerly we sent 30,000 tons of rice to Europe, but since the war Europe sends heavily to us. The crop was everywhere lighter than usual last year. North Carolina, whose annual product used to exceed 200,000 casks, raised but 7,000.

From Mexico.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22.

Brownsville accounts to the 15th, received here, state that Bagdad is nearly deserted.—Plunder is uninterrupted—a small force of Liberals were fortifying with cotton bales. Crawford had left for New Orleans after reinforcements and supplies. Gen. Giles Smith has had communication with Gen. Messia in respect to the latter mounting guns which command Brownsville. Belligerent communications have been received. Messia is trying to make another forced loan. American citizens visiting Matamoras are looked upon with distrust. General Wertzel reviewed the troops at Brownsville on the 14th. All in good health and spirits.

Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.

SENATE.—The proposed amendment to the bill for enlarging the powers of the Freedmen's Bureau, restricting the limits of its jurisdiction to the late insurgent States, was discussed.

Mr. Wilson spoke in opposition. Mr. Cowan, of Penn., said that, if such a Bureau must exist, its operations ought not to be felt in the loyal States. The question being taken, the amendment was rejected.

HOUSE.—Mr. Finch introduced a bill to repeal the test-oath. Referred to Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Williams offered a resolution calling for the trial of the leaders in the rebellion by a military court. It would answer no practical purpose to have them tried by a Judicial tribunal in the South, when their peers are equally guilty with the persons charged with crime.

Mr. Stevens, from the Reconstruction Committee, reported a joint resolution to amend the Constitution by providing that the representation and direct taxation shall be apportioned among the several States, which may be included within the Union, according to their respective numbers,—counting the whole number of persons in each State and excluding Indians not taxed; provided that whenever the elective franchise shall be denied or abridged in any State, on account of race or color, all persons of such race or color shall be excluded from the basis of representation.

Mr. Rogers, of New Jersey, declared the proposed amendment contrary to the principles upon which the government is founded—namely, that representation and taxation must go together.

The vote will be taken to-morrow.

Henry Ward Beecher on "Reconstruction."

The Boston Post contains a sketch of a lecture delivered in that city, on Tuesday evening, by the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, on "reconstruction," from which we quote as follows:

There is no principle of American liberty which will cohere with the doctrine that suffrage is a political right. If it be said that this principle would give the right of suffrage to women, he would give it to her as well as man. Every consideration of policy and good sense point to the giving of this right, for a woman is as good as a man, and a man and his wife are a great deal better than each other. Yet he would not insist on the extension of suffrage as a condition of reconstruction. If he had been President he would have done so last spring; but matters had gone so far since that it was unwise to press this requirement now. That which we sow in May we do not sow in August. To go back on the steps that have already been taken and demand new guarantees of the South would be the most ungracious thing that we could ask them to do. Mr. Beecher then stated what, in his opinion, we might and might not expect the South to do. We could not expect that men who had to submit to an overpowering military force should rejoice in their downfall, and spring up to kiss the men that have whipped them. The men of the South were as sincere when they went into the war as those of the North, and now, that they are conquered, we could not ask them to be joyful or jubilant. We must not expect that men, who had relinquished slavery upon compulsion, would engage with alacrity in the work of emancipation. If this result had been the consequence of a long discussion, and they had voted emancipation, we might have reason for the course of remark that is indulged in: not otherwise. We must not expect that men educated under institutions totally the reverse of ours will let them go in a day and seek new ones from their conquerors.

He was not surprised to read that Yankees are not popular at the South, and that when the army goes some of the Yankees must go with it. Being defeated, they are not disposed to accept superfluous and intrusive advice from those who have defeated them. We must not expect that men, who have regarded negroes as inferior beings all their lives, shall receive compliacently the doctrine of equality and citizenship in its relations to the black man. Sometimes it would be well for us to remember the home we live in. He did not believe there were a dozen places in Brooklyn where a colored man could obtain work, unless all the white men should leave. We, who still indulge in this prejudice, should not blame the people of the South who do not believe that society can be reorganized with the negro as an equal. Nor should we expect that they would know how, even when they try to treat the negro fairly, for they have been brought up to treat him as a beast. We may set up schools and churches in the South in such way as to be antagonistic to Southern schools and Southern churches. One kindly disposed white man in the South is worth twenty in Massachusetts. There may be such a precipitate zeal of philanthropy for them as will defeat its own work. Legislation will not alleviate prejudice. It won't change unkind feelings into kind ones. The South must recover by labor, and it is only new industry that will bring her back. She is fast finding this out. Her success depends upon cotton; cotton cannot be had without black labor, and black labor cannot be had unless negroes are kindly treated. So self-interest will soon teach them the right way out of the difficulty. The blacks should become land holders as fast as possible. The glory of the North is its diversified and minute industry. He would not object to making property a preliminary qualification for suffrage, as an inducement to industry and thrift.

Mr. Beecher closed his lecture with an eloquent appeal for justice and love, as the only sure basis of reconstruction, and advocated a spirit of magnanimity. He protested against vindictive punishment against Jeff. Davis, as inexpedient and uncalled for. The era of destruction had passed, and that of restoration had come. This new position of affairs required a change of tactics. His remarks on this point made a profound impression.

The Twenty-Fifth Army Corps, composed of United States colored troops, by direction of the Secretary of War, has been discontinued as an organization, and the troops composing it will be mustered out of service under orders from the commanding general.

R. P. WARING.—We are pleased to state that this gentleman having promptly paid the fine imposed by his sentence, has been released from custody and retured to Charlotte.—Charlotte Times.

1.—You are threatened with Pneumonia, read the following from Capt. W. P. Davis, of Petersburg, Virginia:

"Sympathy for the suffering prompts me to certify that my servant man was suffering in the last stage of Pneumonia throwing up matter and blood in large quantities; his case was considered hopeless, so much so, that there was no medical prescription used for his recovery; I regarded him as good as dead. Hearing of the great cures made by the SOUTHERN HEPATIC PILLS, I thought that I would try an experiment on him; without any hope of success how ever, I gave the Pills in large doses; in a short time to my great surprise, there was a change for the better. I continued giving them to him until he became a perfectly sound man. He is now attending to his work with as much strength and vigor as he ever did. With his case, and what I have seen and heard of the good effect of these Pills, I do most earnestly recommend them as the best family medicine I have ever seen or used."

The location can be secured by the purchase of an elegantly arranged brick office with two rooms, and the lot upon which it is located, which I will sell for $600 cash. I have, also, a stock of medicines on hand which I will dispose of. A good dwelling-house can be purchased convenient to the office if desired. The village has a flourishing school, affords a pleasant residence, and is situated in a fine agricultural region, two miles from the Yadkin river, 11 miles west of Salem and 18 north of Lexington. CIRCULAR.

TO THE PUBLIC:

The undersigned has now ready for the press a volume, the result of the lucubrations of many years, entitled a "Short Treatise on Chronology in General, and especially on Classical Chronology." The work is not intended to be a chronological chart, nor yet a collection of dates and synchronistic tables. The author's aim has been to prepare a "Horn Book" of Chronology, containing the leading principles, laws and facts of that science.

THE FIRST part treats of measuring time and adjusting its various divisions; the SECOND of fixing dates of historical events and arranging them in order; and the THIRD, of miscellaneous matters important to the chronologist.

UNDER THE FIRST DIVISION are discussed the day, the week, the month, the year and certain cycles used in computing the civil calendar and preparing the Almanac; the origin, history, nature character, and various sub-divisions of each, especially among the ancients.

UNDER THE SECOND DIVISION the methods of ascertaining the dates or the time when they occurred; the actual dates of some important eras whose epochs are disputed; the most important epochs and eras which have been employed at different times and by different nations, including those which are still in use; and the actual dates of the most prominent events in classical chronology.

UNDER THE THIRD AND LAST DIVISION are considered the epochs and eras of less importance; a sketch of the chronology of India and of China; the principles of the art of mnemotechyny as applied to dates, and the different systems of that art which have been propounded.

The author believes that a work successfully executed upon this plan, though it may not contain very much that is new, cannot but be useful and profitable, not only to the reading public, but also to the youth of our country, in the acquisition of classical and historical learning: and HISTORY will be THE STUDY of this age; it must always be the study of thoughtful men in times of revolution and great political changes, such as our country is at present undergoing.

The contributions of North Carolina, and of the Southern States of the Union generally, to American literature, have heretofore been few, and for the most part, worthless. A few works of fiction and some fugitive poems include our past efforts; and with the excellent Latin Grammar, and the edition of Cæsar's Commentaries, prepared for the press by Col. Bingham—works the very best of their character which have ever fallen under our observation, and which, under more favorable circumstances, will yet win for their author that high reputation in his profession which he merits—our contributions to USEFUL LITERATURE are of the very humblest character. Under such circumstances this book is, with some confidence, presented for public patronage.

The author proposes to publish by subscription. The cost of publication will be fifteen hundred dollars, or more. The book contains about two hundred and fifty 12 mo. pages. It will be brought out in the best style of one of our best American publishers, as to type paper and binding. The cost of single copies delivered will be $2.50.

Persons desiring to subscribe can communicate with the undersigned at Raleigh, but subscription lists will be opened at various places of business in Raleigh and other towns in the State. Subscriptions will be required in cash as essential to the success of the enterprise. Editors who will give this Circular a few insertions and forward a copy of their papers containing it to the author, will be furnished with a copy of the book.

The volume will be placed in the hands of the publisher as soon as the author's success is at all assured, and will be issued to subscribers a few weeks thereafter.

PROSPECTUS

COSMOPOLITE.

ON THE FIRST OF JANUARY WE WILL commence the publication, in the City of Baltimore, of a monthly

Literary Magazine.

There is no publication of this character now issued South of New York City, and the closing of the war has left a large part of the people of the country without any representative.

The COSMOPOLITE will endeavor to

Literature, Art, Reviews, Scientific Papers and General Reading, and we shall number among our contributors some of the first literary men of the South, with others from the Northern Union and Paris.

All matter to originate with the carefully selected from the newest and best of the English, French and German publications; and no Editorials will appear to offend or express views at variance with the VERY FIRST magazines of the country.

As his home interests we have established the COSMOPOLITE upon conservational basis. We hope to make it the organ of general literature alone; and will be unaffected by any party, or clique whatever.

It will be mailed to subscribers in any part of the country upon receipt of the following

Subscription:

Single Copies, for one year,	$4 00
Five Copies for one year,	18 00
Ten Copies for one year,	38 00

The COSMOPOLITE will be generally distributed among the Merchants and Planters of the South, and we will add, for their information, a few advertisements at moderate rates.

Liberal deductions will be made booksellers and newsdealers.

Newspapers publishing this prospectus and sending a marked copy to the undersigned, will receive a copy of the magazine. Address

PROSPECTUS.

THE publication of the

The North Carolina Presbyterian

will be resumed in Fayetteville, on Wednesday, the 2nd of January next.

Confidently relying on the hearty support which we have heretofore received, we shall endeavor to render the paper more attractive, both in appearance and matter, than it has ever been, sparing neither pains or expense in the accomplishment of this purpose.

With the passing away of old things, a new spirit of activity, energy and enterprise, has been infused into every department of secular thought and business. Why should not the Church, also, partake of the progressive advancement? Why should she, of all the agencies brought to bear with such tremendous force upon the civilization of the present time, be inefficient, haggard and almost hopeless in the working out of her own destiny?

To arouse the church to the importance and necessity of work; of unceasing, fruitful, tireless energy in the service of her Master and Head; this shall be our first and chief aim. In this we need assistance. We are not, alone, sufficient for these things. Our brethren must help us in every way; by contributions from the rich stores of thought and study; by zealous co-operation in a common cause, for the benefit of all; by extending our circulation throughout all our borders, and thus giving us the means and the opportunity of performing well the work to which we have consecrated all that we have, and all we hope for on earth.

The Pipes at Lucknow.

BY J. G. WHITTIER.

Pipes of the misty moorland,
Voice of the glen and hill,
The drone of highland torrent,
The song of lowland rill!
Not the brae of bloom and heather,
Nor the mountains dark with rain,
Nor maiden bower, nor border tower,
Have heard your sweetest strain!

Dear to the lowland reaper
And plaided mountaineer,
To the cottage and the cattle,
The Scottish pipes are dear.
Sweet sounds the ancient pibroch
O'er mountain, loch, and glades,
But the sweetest of all music
The Pipes at Lucknow played!

Day by day the Indian tiger
Louder yelled and nearer crept;
Round and round the jungle serpent
Near and nearer circles swept.
"Pray for rescue, wives and mothers
Pray to-day!" the soldier said,
"To-morrow, death's between us,
And the wrong and shame we dread."

Oh! they listened, looked and waited
Till their hope became despair,
And the sobs of low bewailing
Filled the pauses of their prayer.
Then up spake a Scottish maiden,
With her ear upon the ground:
"Dinna ye hear it?—dinna ye hear it?
The pipes of o' Havelock sound!"

Hushed the wounded man his groaning;
Hushed the wife her little ones;
Alone they heard the drum roll,
And the roar of Sepoy guns.
But to sounds of Home and childhood
The Highland ear was true;
"Dinna ye hear it?—'tis the slogan!
Will ye no believe it too!"

Like the march of soundless music,
Through the vision of the seer,
More of feeling than of hearing,
Of the heart than of the ear.
She knew the droning pibroch,
She knew the Campbell's call:
"Hark! hear ye no MacGregor's—
The grandest of them all!"

Oh! they listened, dumb and breathless,
And they caught the sound at last;
Faint and far beyond the Goomtree
Rose and fell the piper's blast;
Then a burst of wild thanksgiving
Mingled wo man's voice and man's;
"God be praised!—the march of Havelock!
The piping of the clans!"

Louder, nearer, fierce as vengeance,
Sharp and shrill as swords at strife,
Came the wild MacGregor's clan-call,
Stinging all the air to life,
But when the far-off dust-cloud
To plaided legions grew,
Full tenderly and blithesomely
The pipes of rescue blew!

Round the silver domes of Lucknow,
Round the silver Dowlah's golden shrine,
Breathed the air to Britons dearest,
The air of "Auld Lang Syne."
O'er the cruel roll of war drums
Rose that sweet and homelike strain,
And the tartan clove the turban,
As the Goomtree cleave the plain.

Dear to the corn land reaper
And plaided mountaineer,
The cottage and the castle,
The piper's song is dear.
Sweet sound the Gaelic pibroch
O'er mountain, glen and glade,
But the sweetest of all music
The Pipes at Lucknow played!

From the North Carolina Advertiser.

The Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal is the widest in America, and altogether, one of the most remarkable, in view of the many difficulties that were overcome in the topography of the country. To Ruffin's "Sketches of Lower North Carolina," to which we referred in our last, we are indebted for an interesting history of its construction and many particulars connected with its progress.

The work in question is a Ship Canal, dug on a level, from the waters of Albemarle Sound to those of the Chesapeake, and is designed to give free egress and passage to any distant marts of vessels of as deep draught as can well navigate the Sounds of North Carolina. The entire length of digging is but fourteen miles, all through very low and level ground. The main operation was a straight cut, eight miles long, from deep water in Forth Landing river (empting into Currituck Sound) to deep and tide water at Great Bridge, on the principal branch of Elizabeth river. Another straight and level cut of five miles crosses a low peninsula, mostly of marsh soil, stretching from the high land, between the deep waters of Albemarle and Currituck Sounds. Some necessary dredging in the rivers, to obtain full eight feet depth, makes the entire extent of excavation, as we stated, about fourteen miles.

The very low level of the land through the route, which so much lessened the amount of earth to be excavated, served, in most places, to augment the difficulty of the work. The surface of the swampy ground was often so co-incident with the water, and the earth, generally, was such a quagmire of peat and so full of dead roots and buried logs, under the water, and, of living trees and roots over and at the surface, that the impediments to removing such obstructions were very great, and would have been insuperable by the use of ordinary utensils and with hand-labor. The herculean work of excavation, however, was effected by steam dredges of modern construction and great power. This dredging apparatus was placed in a vessel of fifty or sixty feet in length, and was worked generally by a sixteen horse-power steam engine. There were some ten of these dreding machines and vessels at different places. The excavation was begun at the edge of deep water, as enough water to float the vessel was necessary for the operation. Thence, the work was carried on regularly to fill the depth and width requisite for navigation. Living roots, of gigantic size, were gradually loosened and finally completely eradicated. Huge stumps were undermined by an enormous iron scoop and then lifted up. No obstacle could effectually resist or defeat the monster ditcher. In the language of the author of the "Sketches," "the thrusting out of the beam, its sundry changes of position, suited to every required effort, the seizing and tearing up of the roots and earth, and, finally, the slow stretching out of the enormous arm, and the opening and emptying of its hand—all moved by the unseen power of steam—made the whole operation seem as if it was the manual labor of a thinking being, of colossal size, and of inconceivable physical power."

We have spoken of the extraordinary width of the canal—it being seventy feet. Vessels drawing six feet of water, of 700 tons capacity, pass through it with ease. Indeed the ram Albemarle, drawing seven and a half feet, after being raised from her watery bed, was, by Yankee enterprise, drawn through to Norfolk.—There is no tow path for horses on the canal,—steam tug-boats being the motive power.

By this canal, the agricultural and other varied products of eighteen counties of North Carolina, embracing the most fertile lands in the State, are offered a cheap and safe route to market, and one preferable in every respect to those formerly in use, which were costly in freight, slow in the time of passage, and hazardous to both cargoes and vessels. Vessels passing through the canal must necessarily pass through the noble harbor of Norfolk, and hence it is that we see, at present, now that the interruptions of a state of war are removed, that the people and merchants of that place are making the most strenuous exertions to secure for themselves the profit of buying and selling all the productions of this great region. But still shippers are entirely free to choose and seek the best markets.

The benefits of the increased facilities for navigation, furnished by this canal, extend far beyond the range and high boundaries of the existing navigation of the Sounds. The rivers of North Carolina, or those flowing into Albemarle Sound, above the limits of navigation for sea vessels, offer extensive channels for large boats, which have heretofore scarcely been put to any use. Such is the case with the upper waters of the Neuse and Tau, and the Meherrin and Nottoway rivers. Now that the obstructions to the Chesepeake and the ocean have been removed, all those formerly idle water ways will be, and are being, put to their proper service; and thus not only will the production of all the existing back country of the Sounds be stimulated and increased by the production of expenses and increase of profits, but the area of that production will be greatly enlarged. When steamers run up every river emptying into the Albemarle and Pamlico, the planters can sell many products in part heretofore wasted. Potatoes, peas, vegitables and fruit, cattle and poultry, butter and eggs, heretofore consumed in lavish abundance at home, will consitute a new and important branch of their income. Even the reed swamp will contribute something besides mast for hogs being now sold in New York for about $16 per cord for the purpose of being manufactured into paper.

TO OUR FRIENDS.

WE STILL CONTINUE TO SELL BOOKS AND Stationery, and all other goods in our line. We cannot sell at cost. If we do so, we shall soon be unable to buy other Goods. We have been trading in our line for several years. Our friends have always patronized us largely, for which we are thankful. We have always tried to make a living profit on our Goods, and at the same time to give general satisfaction to our customers. We intend still to follow the same rule, which we think fair and honorable. Such books as we do not have on hand we will order for our friends.

Among our late arrivals we have Methodist Hymn Books, Episcopal Prayer Books, Illustrated Children's Books in great variety, Photographs of Southern Generals, and Photograph Albums.

We have also a great variety of Common and Fine Bibles and Testaments. Also a large variety of Sheet Music.

We try to keep all School Books wanted by Teachers, to whom we sell at a liberal discount.

Call and examine our stock before buying elsewhere.

We are prepared to do the best BOOK BINDING in the neatest style at short notice.

We want to trade with our friends for years to come, hence we will sell as cheap as we can under the circumstances.
